Faculty Development Newsletter
Upcoming Opportunities

May 16, 2023

Dear Faculty,

The “UCSF Health Center for Enhancement in Healthcare” offers several excellent workshops that focus on communication skills. Please give serious consideration to the opportunities listed below. AND….please let me know about your experience so we can increase our feedback. Good luck.

To see faculty development opportunities at-a-glance throughout the year, I encourage you to take a look at our internal Academic Affairs database.

Sincerely,

Susan Wall, MD
Advisor to the Chair, Faculty Development

WORKSHOPS

Half-Day Foundational Course: Enhancing Relationship-Centered Communication Skills - is a facilitated learning program where Attending Physicians and Advanced Practice Providers from different clinical backgrounds come together with skilled communication facilitators to build on existing skills. Learning occurs in small groups with ample opportunity to practice new skills. Scenarios are generated by learner cases and are Patient/Provider focused.

4 hours of CME will be offered for 4 hours in attendance.
For physicians who participate in funds flow and work >50% time at UCSF Health, $500 dollars will be credited to your department on your behalf for each 4-hour session.

Though some courses will be in person, we will reserve the option to convert to Zoom should it be warranted.

Advanced Micro Skills Boosters - Short sessions that build on the foundational half day course (Enhancing Relationship Centered Communication Skills). In these 2 hour sessions led by skilled facilitators, learners will develop a deeper dive into specific common challenges in communication. In addition to application of foundational skill sets learned in the foundational course, targeted approaches and additional skills will be introduced. These courses follow the same structure of brief didactic material introduced in small group settings with skills practice. Three Micro Skills courses are now available: Conflict, Anger in the Encounter and Breaking Bad News.
